ONLINE, ON-CAMPUS AND FIELD-BASED LEARNING EXPERIENCES

The Online M.S.W. is taught by the same full-time and adjunct faculty members who teach students in traditional programs at the School of Social Work. It is a part-time program combining online instruction with two campus visits each year.

Online Coursework
All courses are delivered on the Moodle learning management system. Some courses have no live components, and students can complete them largely on their schedule. Other courses are fully or partially live, requiring students to participate online at scheduled times. All online courses incorporate interactive elements and may include reading, viewing video lectures, completing case assignments and assessments, participating in multi-thread VoiceThread discussions, and working on group projects.

On-Campus Experiences
On-campus intensive residencies provide distance learners with an opportunity to interact with and learn from each other and their professors in a dynamic classroom environment. Intensive residencies are held twice annually and range from two to four days, always incorporating a weekend to accommodate working professionals. Many students report that on-campus training is a highlight of their education.

Field Education
Field education is a central component of graduate social work programs. It teaches students to apply the theory and knowledge learned in the classroom to social work practice in agency settings. Students work at human service agencies—directly with individuals, families, groups, organizations and communities. Assignments consist of diverse practice opportunities and include conducting face-to-face interviews with clients both individually and in group settings.

The School of Social Work provides best-in-class field education support to students, beginning the planning process with learners in the first semester of the Online M.S.W. program. Visit our website for additional details.

CURRICULUM

Your educational and professional background determines the path you take to earn your Online M.S.W from Adelphi. There are three different program paths: Standard, MSW for Human Service Professionals and Advanced Standing.

Standard and MSW for Human Service Professionals students
Students in the Standard and MSW for Human Service Professionals paths complete their degree in three years. For these students, the Online M.S.W. program comprises eight to nine semesters, divided between a Foundation Year curriculum and an Advanced Year curriculum. Courses are sequential and students take 6 to 10 credit hours per semester, and complete 64 credit hours to graduate. Students take three elective courses, one per semester, for nine credit hours during the Advanced Year. Courses span 8 to 15 weeks, depending on the semester.

Students in the MSW for Human Services Professionals track are concurrently employed in human services and are eligible to complete an employment-based field placement. They must have several years of experience in the field and are required to complete only one field placement.

Advanced Standing Students
Advanced Standing students hold a bachelor’s degree in social work from a CSWE-accredited university or college and are required to complete only the Advanced Year curriculum. These students can earn their degree in 15 months.

Note: A list of field placement and online learning experience courses and full course descriptions are available on the curriculum page on our website.
